

CASALE PANAYIOTIS

Tradition meets Tomorrow

Welcome to Kalopanayiotis

Perched on the steep incline of the Marathasa valley in the northern Troodos mountains, Kalopanayiotis is one of the most picturesque villages in Cyprus, surrounded by vineyards, orchards and pine forests. This ancient spa village is famous for its natural healing sulphur springs and the fresco-covered monastery of St John Lampadistis, a UNESCO world heritage site.

Pilgrims and travellers down the ages from the time of the ancient Kings of Soli have stopped to bathe in these waters, and the Apostle Paul is said to have baptised the first ever bishop of Cyprus here on his journey to Paphos.

We welcome you to join these renowned visitors and discover for yourself the ancient traditions and natural beauty of Kalopanayiotis.

Welcome to Casale Panayiotis

A very warm welcome to Casale Panayiotis and the village of my childhood, Kalopanayiotis. Casale Panayiotis is a haven of peace and tranquility in one of the most beautiful and unspoilt corners of Cyprus, where time has stood still over centuries. Tucked away in the old neighbourhood of Kalopanayiotis village, Casale Panayiotis offers exceptional Cypriot hospitality to the discerning visitor.

Each guest room was once a traditional village home, individually restored to the highest standard. We serve mouthwatering traditional Cypriot village cuisine using recipes handed down over generations. Our ingredients are locally sourced, with seasonal fruit and vegetables from my private estate.

Relax in the spa or unwind with a book on the veranda and enjoy the view of the valley and the sound of the river Setrachos. Explore the fresco-covered 11th century St John Lampadistis monastery, the charming Byzantine chapels and churches, and the natural healing sulphur springs. Amble along a nature path or ride mountain bikes along the forest trails. You are welcome to visit my estate to pick fruit in season and try your luck at catching trout.

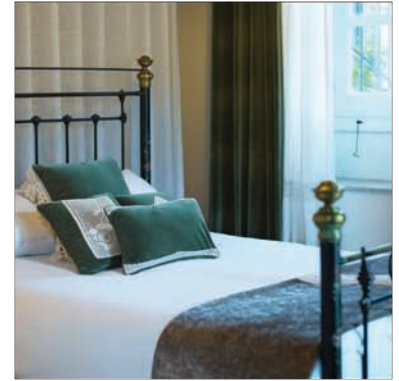

However you choose to spend your days, I invite you to share in the love and pride I have of my village and the beautiful countryside, and I hope that a piece of rural Cyprus will forever remain in your heart.

Kopiaste!

Breathing new life...

Casale Panayiotis is the vision of civil engineer, John Papadouris, now Mukhtar (Mayor) of Kalopanayiotis village. Like many young men growing up in Cyprus in the 1950s, Papadouris went abroad in search of better prospects.

On his return to his village of birth some 40 years later, he determined to breathe new life into the area. Papadouris used his love of his birthplace and his business acumen to accomplish this, and along with both private and EU funds has brought about the revitalisation of a village in decline. Homeowners have been inspired to refurbish their homes, letting rooms and setting up guesthouses with Casale Panayiotis managing the bookings for many of them.

New business enterprises are being set up, bringing life back into the beautiful village with its cobbled streets and ancient traditions. A museum next to the Monastery of St John Lampadistis is full of priceless, inscribed Byzantine art and artefacts.

Kalopanayiotis was a famous ancient spa village where Roman, Byzantine and Frank visitors would bathe in the healing sulphur springs of the Setrachos River and visit the mystical ancient 11th century monastery. Kalopanayiotis is quickly reclaiming its name as a Cyprus treasure and now the template of this rebirth is spreading to nearby villages.
