CROSBY STREET
HOTEL

New York

Crosby Street Hotel is situated in the heart of SoHo between Prince and Spring Streets. It is surrounded by some of New York's most vibrant bars, cafés, restaurants, galleries and shops.

Interior design by Kit Kemp reflects her individual personal style which is characterised by a fresh, contemporary and sometimes quirky look. There is great emphasis upon colour and texture and the hotel features an impressive personally selected collection of art.

The ground floor lobby is dominated by grey-oak floorboards, soaring glass windows and a dramatic 10 foot high Jaume Plensa steel sculpture of a human head created from letters of the alphabet. The hotel's drawing room has deep patchwork sofas and oil paintings by the artist François Bard. The Crosby Bar is a vast space with a long pewter bar and a multitude of colourful 50's ceiling lights. Each of these areas look onto a spacious leafy garden which has a tall petrified tree sculpture at its heart. There are 86 individually designed bedrooms and suites, a gym, state-of-the-art screening room and 3 private event spaces.

The 86 bedrooms and suites are individually designed, spacious and light with high ceilings and large oversized warehouse style windows. They provide all the facilities expected by today's sophisticated traveller. These include a writing desk, safe, flat screen TV, WiFi, DVD/CD player and i-pod docking station. Bathrooms are luxuriously designed in granite, oak and glass. There are spectacular one and two bedroom suites on the upper floors with views stretching across downtown Manhattan.

Crosby Street Hotel has several sophisticated private event spaces. There are three beautifully designed rooms which can easily be transformed from a luxurious drawing room to a stylish meeting room or sumptuous dining room. They are ideal for large and small scale parties, corporate entertaining as well as product launches and press days. There is a 99 seat screening room which is of the highest professional standard with state-of-the-art sound and projection and luxurious leather seating.
